

Medical Technology Solutions

Our new modular product is designed to address life science company exposures to products-completed operations, professional, information risk and communication liability risks. You can customize your client's solutions with a broad array of first and third party coverages with a common set of definitions, conditions and exclusions.

Our third-party liability coverages include:

- Products-completed operations, errors or omissions and clinical trial medical payments
- Information risk or cyber-related exposures relating to the disclosure of Personal Identifiable Information
- Communication liability addressing copyright and trademark infringements involving access and content activities
- Privacy administrative proceedings providing funds arising from claim defense, fines, penalties and consumer redress matters

In addition to the broad range of liability coverages, Medical Technology Solutions also provides third-party coverage to support the expenses associated with navigating the impact of a Cyber incident as well as the unfortunate events associated with life science companies' products or work:

- Life science product withdrawal expense
- Life science crisis management expense
- Breach consultation to help assess a cyber event's severity and set a response action plan
- Notifications, call-center support and credit monitoring for affected individuals
- Information restoration and hardware replacement expense
- Extortion payment and forensic expense
